

ABSTRACT

A hyaluronic acid compound which is a reaction product between hyaluronic acid and a phosphatidyl ethanolamine.

- 5 This compound has biocompatibility and bio-safety, and can be formed into a hydrogel or molded form having a certain shape. Making use of these properties, it is used to treat a knee joint, prevent the accretion of a tissue after an operation and keep a skin wet.